Something to think about...

Every once in a while, we come across a story we just cannot believe, and the disciples are no different. Thomas is slow to believe the good news of Jesus' resurrection – but he is not slow to grasp its implications as he cries out, "My Lord and my God!"

Thomas is much more than a doubter – he is one who needs to find the answers for himself, one who needs to search for the truth in order to believe. At times, all of us will have to search our hearts and minds like Thomas, patiently waiting for our own personal encounter with Christ. When in doubt, we may want to ask ourselves: Which faith is greater – one that never doubts, or the faith that doubts, investigates, and then believes?
