SUNDAY REFLECTION

PSALM 34:1. I will bless the Lord at all times; his praise shall ever be in my mouth.
We often profess grand resolutions for ourselves at the beginning of a new year. We may even pray to God for new beginnings and new opportunities and the fulfillment of these resolutions. But this psalm begins with praise for God. No requests. No petitions. Just praise to God at all times. In times of doubt, fear, joy, or clarity. All times. We don't only praise when things go our way or when we get what we want. We praise because God's being draws praise from us.

How about we try something new this year? Let us praise God for all that we will encounter. Let us praise God as we take the first breath of the day, as we greet our faces and bodies in the mirror or head to the job we may struggle to love. Let us praise God as darkness cloaks growth and learning and when light breaks through the night. Let us magnify God's name continually in our mouths and see what will happen.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

All that we are not, He perfects.
All that we are, He accepts, and all that we can be, He anticipates.
