BISHOP’S REFLECTION

Do you dream of justice and peace? Perhaps you have more “down-to-earth” dreams: to love and be loved, to have a fulfilling job that provides financial security and the opportunity to build a future—a family, a home, a car, travel. Yet, in recent times, we have come to realize that all these dreams—ours and those of billions of our fellow human beings—will not come true if there is no justice and peace within us and around us.
Everything is connected! We live out our very personal hopes on a planet that is becoming increasingly suffocated, running out of resources. We pursue our plans in a world where conflicts, both small and large, threaten to set it ablaze—and in doing so, threaten our security and our plans for the future. So, do you dream of justice and peace? Justice and peace are like two cornerstones upon which everything rests—in our personal lives and in the life of our society. So, it’s wonderful to believe in them, to never lose hope for a better future for ourselves and for everyone.
